New web cameras connect parents with infants in Abington Hospital's NICU

Parents of infants in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) at Abington Hospital – Jefferson Health can now feel a little more at ease when they're unable to be physically pres-ent at their baby's bedside.

ease when they're unable to be physically present at their baby's bedside.

Thanks to a donation, each of the NICU's 34 beds are now equipped with NICVIEW web cameras, which allow parents, family and friends to view their infant in real-time, 24/7, through a secure online portal. An additional four web cameras were purchased to accommodate patient overflow in the NICU, bringing Abington's total to 38 cameras.

Access to the NICVIEW web camera system is secure. Parents are given personal login information (which can be shared with family and friends) to access the online portal and see their baby anytime from anywhere in the world.

The purchase of the web cameras was made possible by a $100,000 gift by Kevin and Caitlin Johnson of New Hope, along with Kevin's parents, John and Sue Johnson of Flemington, N.J. Kevin and Caitlin's twin boys, Brayden and Parker, are former patients in Abington's NICU – born at 28 weeks. They are now enjoying life as happy, healthy 1-year-olds.

Meetings held for "loss survivors"

Reports of suicide have increased in Bucks County over

Reports of suicide have increased in Bucks County over the last decade.

The Bucks County Coroner's Office reported 88 suicides in 2015, up from 66 in 2006. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, every 12.3 minutes, someone dies by suicide in this country. Each completed suicide affects 18 other people; therefore, in 2015 alone, 1,584 Bucks County citizens became loss survivors, meaning they suffered the loss of a loved one as a result of suicide.

The Families Subcommittee of the Bucks County Suicide Prevention Task Force is a group of individuals who have lost a loved one to suicide. The goals of this group are to raise awareness about suicide and to play an active role in suicide prevention. The subcommittee accomplishes these goals by engaging in community education and advocating for legislation that supports the improvement of the mental health system and treatment options.

The group's advisor is Bucks County Commissioner Diane M. Ellis-Marseglia who herself is a loss survivor of suicide.

Grand View Health has been named one of America's Most Wired hospitals for the sixth consecutive year, according to results of the 18th annual Health Care's Most Wired survey, released by the American Hospital Association's (AHA) Health Forum.

Doylestown Hospital is also among the 21 Pennsylvania hospitals recognized as "Most Wired." This is the fifth year Doylestown Hospital made the national Most Wired list. According to the survey, Most Wired hospitals are using telehealth to fill gaps in care; provide services 24 hours a day, seven days a week; and expand access to medical specialists.

Vired "nospitals

In redefining the way that they provide care in their communities, Most Wired hospitals are using technology to build patient engagement with the individual's lifestyle in mind, which includes electronic access to their care team.

Sixty-eight percent accept patient-generated data through the patient portal. Twenty-stations offer E-visits through a mobile application, and 61 percent use social media to provide support groups.

Detailed results of the survey and study can be found in the July issue of H&HN. For a full list of winners, visit hhnmag.com.

Approximately 50 million men and approximately 30 million women suffer from male/female pattern baldness or thinning hair. Many potential patients shy-away from (or are not candidates for) the traditional "strip method" of hair replacement because of the slow recovery time, the loss of feeling at the incision site, the tiny linear scar on the back of the head or the amount of post-operative pain involved.

NeoGraft technology automates the Follicular Uniterative Textraction (FUE) method to give patients more natural looking patients more natural looking results with minimal downtime
